

Declan O'Byrne

Declan O'Byrne (Ireland) completed his STL at Milltown Institute of Philosophy and Theology (Dublin) and his PhD in Systematic Theology at Mater Dei Institute of Education (Dublin City University). He is the author of Spirit Christology and Trinity in the Theology of David Coffey (2010) and For Us and for Our Salvation: The "Christological" and Trinitarian Anthropology (2018). He has taught at Tangaza College (Nairobi, Kenya), Hekima College (Nairobi, Kenya), the Pontifical Urbaniana University (Rome). He is currently lecturer in systematic theology at Istituto Universitario. Sophia (Firenze, Italy), where he is also Vice-Rector. His research interests include the intersection of christology, trinitarian theology and theological anthropology.

